Sebastião Salgado's Site Decisions

I created this website on Sebastian Salgado for a variety of reasons. To start, he is my favorite photographer and has been an inspiration to me for years due to his ability to capture moments and make them last forever in our memory.

After looking at his pictures, I had the idea to make a website where we could highlight his best qualities and give others the chance to learn more about him. Although he has a great job, few people are aware of his other side.

In this instance, I made the decision to design a website using black and white to represent your signature in your images while he laboriously tried to incorporate these similar elements from your images.

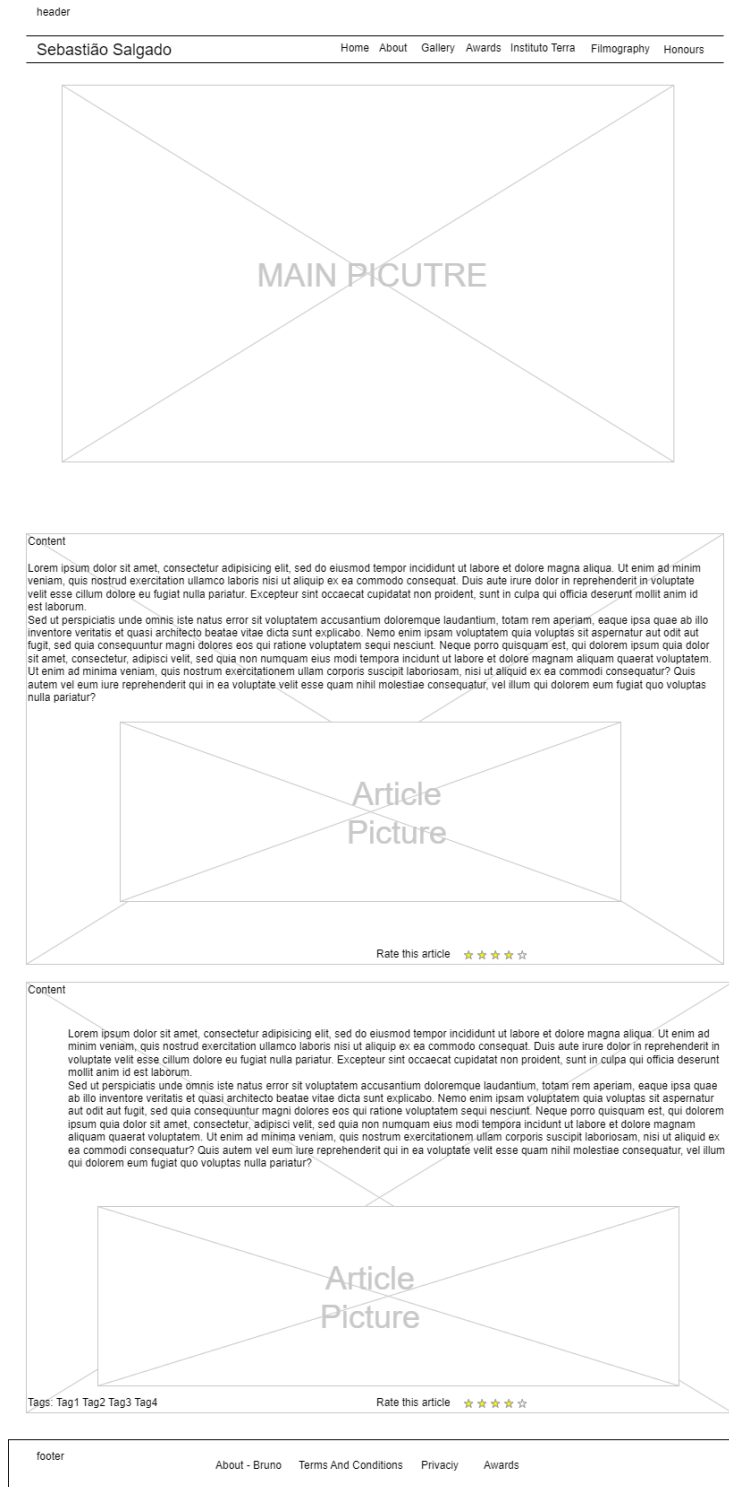

The ideal technique to construct the elements needed to fill the site is with lines and forms; blocks and letters provide that impression.

Wireframe

I Planned with wireframe only the base of my header and footer, imagining all content inside of the main would be flexed using the grid to deal with the content and images where I found during the process.

Research

I used some sites as references to create my idea of designing some links bellows.
